But where to morrow? well all is one for that:
Who hath descried the number of the foe;
Nor. Six or seuen thousand is their greatest number,
King. Why, our battalian trebles that account,
Besides that, a Kings name is a Tower of strength,
Which they vpon the aduerse party want:
Vp with my Tent there valiant Gentlemen,
Let vs suruey the vantage or the field,
Call for some men of sound direction,
Lets want no discipline make no delay,
For Lords to morrow is a busie day, Exeunt.

Enter Richard with the Lords.

Rich. The weary Sunne hath made a golden seat,
And by the bright tracke of his fiery Carre,
Giues signall of a goodly day to morrow,
Where is Sir William Brandon, he shall beare my standerd,
The Earle of Pembrooke keepe his regiment,
Good Captaine Blunt, beare my good night to him,
And by the second houre in the morning,
Desire the Earle to see me in my Tent.
Yet one thing more, good Blunt before thou goest,
Where is Lord Stanley quarterd, doest thou know?
Blunt. Vnlesse I haue mistaine his colours much,
Which well I am assur'd I haue not done,
His regiment lieth halfe a mile at least,
South from the mighty power of the King.
Rich. If without perrill it be possible,
Good Captaine Blunt beare my good night to him,
And giue him from me this most needfull scrowle.
Blunt. Vpon my life my Lord, Ile vndertake it.
Rich. Farewell Good Blunt.
Giue me some Inke and paper in my Tent,
Ile draw the forme and modle of our battell,
Limit each leader to his seuerall charge,
And part in iust proportion our small strength:
Come let vs consult vpon the morrowes businesse,
In our Tent, the aire is raw and cold.

Enter King Richard, Nor. Ratcliffe, Catesby.

King. What is a clocke?

Cat.

Cat. It is six of the clocke, full s
Kin. I will not sup to night, giue
What is my Beauer easier then it
And all my armour layd into my
Cat. It is my Liege, and all thing
Kin. Good Norfolke hie thee to
Vse carefull watch, chuse trusty C
Nor. I goe my Lord.
Kin. Stur with the Larke to mo
Nor. I warrant you my Lord,
Kin. Catesby.
Rat. My Lord.
Kin. Send out a Purseuant at a
To Stanleys regiment, bid him bri
Before Sun-rising, least his sonne G
Into the blind caue of eternall ni
Fill me a boule of Wine, giue me
Saddle white Surrey for the field
Looke that my staues be sound an
Rat. My Lord.
Kin. Saweſt thou the melancho
Rat. Thomas the Earle of Surre
Much like Cockshut time, from t
Went through the army chering
Kin. So I am satisfied, giue me a
I haue not that alacrity of spirit,
Nor cleare of mind that I was wo
Set it downe, is Inke and paper r
Rat. It is my Lord.
Kin. Bid my guard watch, leat
Ratcliffe about the midst of night
And helpe to arme me, leaue me I

Enter Darby to Richmond

Dar. Fortune and victory sit on Rich. All comfort that the dark
Be to thy person noble father in la
Tell me how fares our noble mot
Dar. I by attorney blesse thee fr
Who prayes continually for Rich

WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE Richard III (STC 22321) LONDON, 1634 NATIONAL LIBRARY OF SCOTLAND (B